Hi,

We wanted to inform you that the domain energytransportx.com is already hosting one of your existing sites. Because of this, we're unable to host the new frontend directly on the main domain.

However, we can host the frontend in one of the following ways:

On a subdomain of your main domain – for example, app.energytransportx.com or portal.energytransportx.com.

On the domain energytransportx.info, which we've already set up and can use for the frontend deployment.

Please let us know which option you'd prefer so we can proceed with the setup.

Best regards,

miguel_trevino sent you a message Oct 14, 2025, 6:41 PM

Hey team, we'd like to proceed with portal.energytransportx.com as our subdomain. We can set it up as a CNAME or A record. Let me know which would be preferred. I am currently working on setting it up.

miguel_trevino sent you a message Oct 14, 2025, 6:46 PM

I've just set it up as portal.energytransportx.com, let me know if you need anything else from us. It is a subdomain of our energytransportx.com, will be in the hostinger account

Sure! If anything comes up, I'll be sure to reach out to you.

Sounds good. Just to make sure on one thing. By the 16th-17th publishing timeline we need to have the "Live Schematic" button back in the customer view, this is a priority for us. We need it there, even if it doesn't do anything currently. It is crucial for our business presentation to show it. We will work on connecting it to an API later.

Thank you

You sent a message Oct 14, 2025, 7:49 PM

Thank you for the clarification. We completely understand the importance of having the "Live Schematic" button visible for your upcoming presentation.

We'll make sure it's restored in the customer view by the 16th-17th as part of the publishing timeline. For now, it will appear as a non-functional placeholder until the API connection is implemented later.
